Swiss-American artist Kelly Fischer will make her Madrid debut at the international art showcase ARTIST FERIA de Arte Contemporaneo, where four pieces from her 'Street Art' series will be exhibited in collaboration with VESANIART gallery. Fischer drew inspiration from Switzerland and her many adventures in New York City to create her immersive art. She used her abstract style to create pieces that display her vision. In the end, she had the imagination of her audience take off right where she left off as viewers admired her work.

Fischer was born in Tennessee but lives in Switzerland where she is a children's book author. Despite this, she maintained strong connections in both Switzerland and the United States as she frequently splits her time between both countries. This allows her to display her art globally using multiple aesthetics of each country as a muse.

Kelly stated, "My work begins to emerge as color and texture are added layer by layer. Landscapes push the viewer to a world of color, light, and emotion. Much of the result is driven by unconscious creative drives." The visual artist explains that she seeks to capture the raw beauty of two places that inspire and touch her heart; the stunning landscapes of Switzerland and the concrete art jungle of New York.

Kelly's paintings have been featured at numerous galleries and exhibitions, including Scope Art Fair Miami, the Austrian Biennale, and London International Art Events. Her work is also part of the collections of the Boca Raton's Florida Jewish Foundation; Miami, Florida's Miami Dade College; and Bern, Switzerland's Widmar Halle. kelly-fischer.com
